Appreciative Inquiry: Past, Present and Future
And Celebrating the Contributions of Jane Magruder Watkins

When: February 19-21, 2016
Where: Williamsburg, Virginia, at the College of William & Mary, School of Education

Please join us as we gather to explore the Past, Present and Future of Appreciative Inquiry with top thought leaders in the field of AI. We will celebrate with Jane Magruder Watkins her life’s work in bringing Appreciative Inquiry and positive change to the world. We will gather in Williamsburg, VA to share stories of working and learning together. Come be part of this thriving community as we rekindle old connections and make new ones to broaden and expand Appreciative Inquiry theory and practice.

We will begin Friday evening with a casual opening reception. Saturday we will spend in dialogue following the 4-D framework to explore the great stories of where our journeys with Appreciative Inquiry have taken us. In the evening, we will have a dinner and slideshow where we can laugh and learn about Jane and her contribution to the world. Sunday we will have an open space to further explore what the world is calling for us to do to continue bringing appreciative practices to our work. We plan to end around noon.

The registration fee includes: program materials, the opening reception, and three meals on Saturday and Sunday morning. There will be a cash bar available on Friday and Saturday evenings.

With any proceeds from the conference the Taos Institute will inaugurate the Jane Magruder Watkins Scholarship Fund, which is set up to support students from developing countries and those with financial need to participate in the graduate programs of the Taos Institute. We will be accepting donations to this fund at the time of registration. See the links below to make your donation.

Whether you are able attend the event or not please send us pictures, poem, or story to share with Jane.

Send us your pictures of you and Jane at work or play, Jane at work, Jane presenting, groups Jane worked with and/or a written story, letter, poem and we will prepare a slide show and a memory book for Jane.

Please send whatever you have to share to us by December 15th.
