

SOCIAL CONSTRUCTION AND RELATIONAL PRACTICES

AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
SEPTEMBER 16 - 19, 1999

SPONSORED BY THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE AND THE TAOS INSTITUTE

AN INVITATION TO A DYNAMIC AND TRANSFORMATIVE EXCHANGE

In September of 1999, a broad array of scholars and practitioners will gather in Durham, New Hampshire for a second landmark conference dedicated to social constructionist inquiry. Building on our 1993 conference, we will provide a forum for the joint exploration of current developments in social constructionist thought and practice. The conference theme places emphasis on the relational practices that create and transform cultural life. Dynamic presentations by leading voices, symposia, roundtable discussions, social activities, and a casual setting, create a venue for three days of engaging inquiry and exploration. Throughout the conference, the emphasis will be on bringing social constructionist theory and practice into mutually enriching dialogue.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Dialogues on social construction provide a common ground across a wide range of scholarly and practical professions. You will be joined by scholars from across the humanities and social sciences, along with therapists, educators, community builders, organizational consultants, and more. The conference will be instructive for anyone interested in exploring the potentials of relational theory and practice.

*"Meaning is not the product of individual minds
but of relationships."*

Kenneth J. Gergen
"The Saturated Self"

HOW TO REGISTER

Registration information for the 1999 conference may be obtained by contacting the University Conference Office at 603.862.1900. A registration brochure will be mailed to all inquiries in May, 1999. Conference participants may also register on the world wide web. The conference will be held at the New England Conference Center and Hotel on the campus of the University of New Hampshire.

University of New Hampshire
University Conference Office • 11 Brook Way • Durham, NH 03824 • 603.862.1900

Visit our website at www.unh.edu/taos/